DEDICATION

To the two people dear to our hearts, MRS. WILMA B. GREENE and MR. FRANK W. HOWELL, we, the seniors of Glenwood dedicate our annual. They have been co-operative and sincere in all their work for us. By their own words and actions, they have inspired us to higher ideals. We cannot find words to express our appreciation for everything they have done for us. With gladness from the bottoms of our hearts we, the class of 1954, dedicate to them this volume of the Nushka.

CLASS POEM

It seems only yesterday
When we were freshmen green
Carefree, happy, and gay,
With laughter so serene.

Then our Sophomore year,
That followed closely by,
Gave us wisdom clear
The pride of Glenwood Hi.

Juniors we were very soon,
Our goal not far away;
Every passing moment
Brought us close to the day.

Now we're the Class of '54;
Time is flying by;
Minutes swiftly soar;
And parting days come nigh.

Friends and classmates good-bye;
Dear teachers our thanks true;
As we leave Glenwood Hi,
Our gratitude's to you.

As we leave Glenwood halls,
Our tender hearts are sore;
But the world now calls
For this Class of '54.

CLASS HISTORY

The school year of 1942-43 saw a new group of eager, expectant first graders entering school. We were such frightened and shy "little ones". Now that we are Seniors it is hard for us to realize that it has been twelve years since we began our "schooling". We are glad that it was Miss Estelle Washburn who welcomed us into our school career. She guided us expertly through our first year, which ended all too soon.

So I imagine we looked forward to year number two with more enthusiasm than did our teachers, Miss Genell Butt and Miss Ellen Crawford, who helped us along on the "humpy road of learning".

In our third year with Mrs. Mary Cothron we grew in the knowledge of spelling and were introduced to a subject called "arithmetic".

Mrs. Delia Rutherford was our guide and helper in our fourth year of school. She did her best to teach us that new subject - geography. Our interest in this subject did not need much encouraging, since it opened new horizons to our young minds.

We spent a pleasant year in the fifth grade with Miss Mary Beam, who prepared us for Miss Mamie Whitesides' sixth grade. This sixth grade marked a turn in our school spirit. School can really be wonderful!

We will never forget our seventh year! Mrs. Dessie Lawing and Mrs. Charlene Teague were patient with us and sent us on our way with a better understanding of mathematics, United States History, and English. Oh, yes, we were beginning to be better sports and to appreciate art and music.

Physical education and music periods were the highlights of our eighth year. Mr. and Mrs. William Elmore encouraged us in these phases of our growth, along with our less enjoyable subjects. This eighth year saw our class grow in number when the students came from Dysartsville and Sugar Hill to join us. Loree Duval, Mavis Sprouse, Betty Smith, Shirley Baker, and Harvey Mashburn came to Glenwood from Dysartsville. Dorcas Wilkerson, Eugene Marlowe, Kermit Cable, and Ruby Frady migrated from Sugar Hill.

At long last high school days were begun in 1950 - that goal we had kept before us through those elementary years. Miss Bertha Martin and Mr. Luther Thomasson were our ninth grade homeroom teachers. Our first grown-up parties that year brightened the ordinary routine of school. Frances Bruner was our class president, James Womach, vice-president, and Jimmy Thomas, secretary and treasurer.

In our sophomore year we felt superior to the new freshman class. Our homeroom teachers were Mr. W. C. Lynch and Mr. Dean Pike. We again elected Frances Bruner president; Mary Lee Morgan, vice-president; and Haskell Poteat, secretary and treasurer.

Our junior year was one to remember. The Junior-Senior Banquet and the Junior play were the high lights of this year. Miss Wilma Byrd was our sponsor and worked with us in all of our activities. The memory of the day we ordered our class rings will long linger, because it was that day we first began to realize our school days were almost over. Our class officers this year were: Mary Lee Morgan, president; Patsy Marlowe, vice-president; and Eugene Marlowe, secretary and treasurer.

At last our senior year! We have the same sponsor that we had last year, but she is now Mrs. James Greene. Lee Roy Suttle is class president, Jimmy Thomas is vice-president, and our secretary and treasurer is again Eugene Marlowe.

There are so many pleasant things to remember about our senior year. The pleasant memories of the first day of school as seniors, the excitement over class rings, and the thrill of being measured for caps and gowns will last many years.

As the 1954 NUSKA, a major class project, goes to press, there are many things yet to happen. The Senior play, the Junior-Senior Banquet, graduation, and the long-awaited trip to our nation's capital are still in the future.

After twelve years, thirty-seven of us have nearly reached one of our goals in the ladder of learning, the goal of a high school education. Many of us plan to continue our climb as we enter various schools and professions to learn to be of service to others. May we ever live up to our motto, "Not to the top but still climbing."

CLASS PROPHECY

It was another beautiful October day in Hollywood, Florida, where I had my "own" beauty shop and had my dream home.

As I awoke that morning and looked out at the lovely, colorful scenery, I remembered my dream of last night. I had dreamed pleasantly of former classmates and happy school days at Glenwood. Being so superstitious, it had been floating around in my mind all morning. When suddenly something happened which convinced me that often times dreams really come true.

You cannot know how surprised I was when someone came into my shop around eleven o'clock, whom I recognized as Hazel Morgan, an old classmate of mine. She told me she had married Glenn Whetstine and that he owned a fleet of trucks in Cheyenne, Wyoming. During the course of our conversation Hazel reminded me that our senior class had planned to return to Glenwood to help with the Harvest Festival on October 31, and that she hoped we could return together.

Anticipation of again seeing the "little red school house" caused me immediately to make plans to be at Glenwood and help with the Festival. The flurry of preparing for business to go on as usual and packing kept me quite busy; so that the next afternoon when we stepped aboard the bus, I was too tired to notice the people around or the driver. However, Hazel soon informed me that Jack Marlowe was driving the bus. He told us that he and his wife, the former Helen Jones, were planning to help with the Harvest Festival, too. Jack told us that Betty Lou Eplee was secretary for Rumfelt and Morgan's Motor Company in Asheville.

I was very restless until we reached Marion and finally Glenwood. How good it seemed to be back again. I could hardly believe my eyes! It had grown to be so much bigger and nicer in ten years. We walked up the steps and whom should we see first but Loyd Ray, the building and ground superintendent for the school, and still unmarried. Loyd, we found, lived near Harvey Mashburn, manager of the A & P Market in Marion, N. C.

We overcame the old fear of the "House of Horrors" and found Garvon Whetstine assisting the "spooks". Willie Fay Kaylor, Coach for the N. Y. tigers, and Joann Lawing, one of the high school teachers, who were helping with the country store, told us that Garvon lived in San Diego, California, and owned the Pacific Lumber Company. As we chatted with them, we learned that Frances Stone and Ann Ireland were with the F. B. I. in Washington, D. C. Both of them were still searching for wealthy husbands.

As we walked down the hall, I was thrilled to see so many of my classmates taking part in everything so cheerfully. Loree Duval and Mavis Sprouse, both nurses at Duke, were helping in the cafeteria.

After helping with the fortune-telling booth, we enjoyed eating with Joyce Williams, who told us about her lovely twin girls. Joyce also told us that Patsy Marlowe, Frances Hensley, and Ruby Frady were living in Texas and were stars on their own T. V. show in Dallas.

We three made our way to the school auditorium and found Dorcas Wilkerson and Jack Taylor, who had been married only a short while, leading the group in the popular school song "O Glenwood High."

It seemed like old school days when we found Jackie Mashburn and Lee Roy Suttle selling drinks and popcorn. Jackie, superintendent of Carolina Mountain Telephone Company in Virginia, was planning to be married soon. Lee Roy was serving in the United States Air Force and planning to marry Betty Smith, secretary for Morton Salt Company in New Orleans.

Those great musicians, Kermit Cable and Eugene Marlowe, were there. They told us about managing their furniture factory in Memphis and being regularly on Grand 'ole Opery every Saturday night.

After the program we were bidding everyone good-bye when Shirley Baker walked up and asked us if we would like to go with her to Marion. We talked as we rode along about Shirley's work as ticket agent in Asheville. After telling Shirley good-bye at the bus station, we went in for our tickets. While waiting for our buses, two nurses came in. We recognized them as Margaret Hawkins and Mary Lillie Swann. Both were nursing at Marion General Hospital. They told us they just forgot to marry.

My bus came before the one which was to take Hazel back to her home in Wyoming. Of course, we were sad at the thoughts of parting again as we had done at graduation. However, I was so glad that she had found me in Florida while on her vacation and had insisted I go with her back to Glenwood.

I climbed aboard the crowded bus and started on my long journey back home. As the bus rolled along, I happened to glance around and see someone I was sure I knew. Sure enough, it was Jimmy Thomas, who was a television announcer, just what he had always wanted to be. Of course, we started talking and the subject of Haskell Poteat, that likable boy who was in our senior class, found its way into our conversation. Jimmy told me that Haskell was a lawyer in Philadelphia and that Shirley Westmoreland assisted him with the office work. He also told me that Lee Pendley was the manager of the Paramount Theater in Newport News, Virginia.

Before too long I arrived home. I took my newspaper from its box and made my way inside to a comfortable chair to rest and glance over it. My eye caught the names of Dorothy England and Dorothy Bowman. I was thrilled to learn about their work in Italy as Missionaries.

As I laid my head over on my pillow and thought of my wonderful trip and my classmates, I said these words to myself: "I shall never be able, and no one else shall ever be able, to convince me not to be superstitious of dreams."

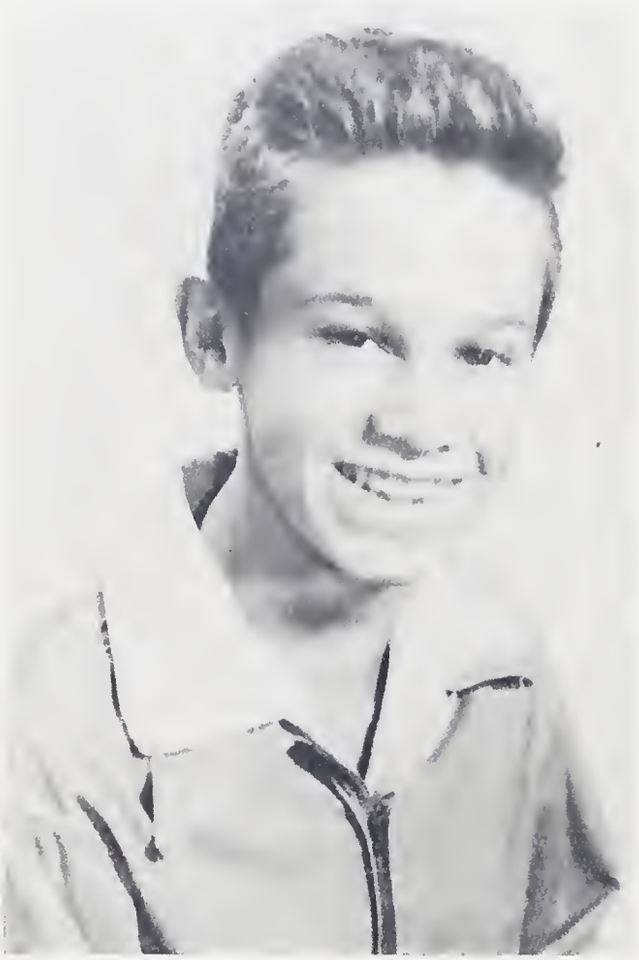
IN MEMORIAM



CARL ELICK PENLEY

The students and faculty of Glenwood High School place this page in the 1954 NUSHKA in memory of CARL ELICK PENLEY, whose accidental death on December 26, 1953, saddened the entire student body and faculty.

Though Carl had been a high school student only a short time, he had endeared himself to his fellow students and teachers. He had early learned that "The only way to have a friend is to be one." (Emerson).

The memory of this happy, young friend will linger long with both students and teachers.
